NFL TECH

For any technology needs, please visit www.nfltech.com and complete the Super Bowl LIII order form.

FREQUENCY COORDINATION

Please be aware that as a matter of League policy you must Frequency Coordinate the use of all wireless devices (wireless microphones, IFB, 2-way radios, microwave, etc., exclusive of cell phones and pagers) prior to an NFL event. This includes wireless devices at Super Bowl LIII, Opening Night, the Media Center and Super Bowl Live. Frequency coordination requests can be submitted by emailing SB53Frequency@nfl.com. You will receive acknowledgement confirming your request by return email.

Please Note: The system operates best using FireFox or Chrome browsers and has had problems using any version of Internet Explorer earlier than version 10.

It is especially important that all Media comply with this coordination requirement immediately as both the Super Bowl and Opening Night are in extremely high use RF environments and the timing for frequency clearance is short. Any wireless device that is not coordinated per League policy above may create radio interference during the events and is subject to being shut down.

CBS

The CBS Television Network marks its 20th Super Bowl broadcast overall – most of any network – with extensive coverage culminating with CBS Sports’ broadcast of Super Bowl LIII on Sunday, February 3 (6:30 PM, ET kickoff) from Mercedes-Benz Stadium in Atlanta, Ga.

THE NFL ON CBS’ lead announce team of Jim Nantz and Tony Romo will call their first Super Bowl together. It will be Nantz’s fifth-time calling play-by-play for the Super Bowl and seventh overall for the Network. Romo will provide analysis for his first Super Bowl.

Veteran CBS Sports producer Jim Rikhoff will be the lead Super Bowl producer for the first time while Mike Arnold will serve as the lead director for his fifth Super Bowl and work his 12th overall.

Reporters Tracy Wolfson and Evan Washburn, each working their second Super Bowl, will provide news, observations and insight from the sidelines. After serving as the head referee last year for Super Bowl LII, CBS Sports' NFL Rules Analyst Gene Steratore will be in the booth alongside Nantz and Romo for his first Super Bowl; and Jay Feely, from the field, will serve as a Game Contributor for his second time.

Sean McManus is Chairman, CBS Sports and Executive Producer for the Network's coverage of the NFL and Super Bowl LIII. David Berson is President, CBS Sports. Harold Bryant is Executive Producer and Senior Vice President, Production, CBS Sports.

CBS, in its 59th year of covering the NFL, travels to Atlanta in full force including the Network's pregame show, THE SUPER BOWL TODAY, originating live from a set in Game Day Fan Plaza and two inside Mercedes-Benz Stadium. James Brown, Boomer Esiason, Bill Cowher, Phil Simms and Nate Burleson, along with Ian Eagle, will host the Network's pregame show previewing all the football and excitement leading up to Super Bowl LIII. NFL Insider Jason La Canfora, reporters Wolfson, Washburn and Jamie Erdahl, NFL Rules Analyst Steratore and Contributor Jim Rome also will cover the pregame activities. Amanda Balionis will serve as the CBS Sports' Social Media Correspondent. THE SUPER BOWL TODAY will be produced by Drew Kaliski and directed by Bob Matina.

For the first time, CBS' Super Bowl Sunday coverage will kick off with THAT OTHER PREGAME SHOW (TOPS), featuring CBS Sports Network's Amy Trask, London Fletcher, Brandon Tierney and Adam Schein, beginning at 11:30 AM, ET.

CBS also will provide extensive, week-long, around-the-clock coverage of the event across its various divisions and platforms, including CBS Sports, CBS Entertainment, CBS News, CBS Sports Network, SHOWTIME Sports, CBS Sports Digital, CBS Sports HQ, CBSN, CBS Television Distribution and CBS Television Stations.

CBS Sports Network, the 24-hour home of CBS Sports, hits Atlanta with over 75 hours of Super Bowl programming throughout the week originating from the Super Bowl Experience and Radio Row, as well as extended post-game coverage. SUPER BOWL LIVE returns to CBS Sports Network this year, along with WE NEED TO TALK, NFL MONDAY QB, THAT OTHER PREGAME SHOW (TOPS), TIME TO SCHEIN, BOOMER AND GIO, TIKI AND TIERNEY and THE JIM ROME SHOW. On Sunday when CBS signs off its broadcast of Super Bowl LIII, SUPER BOWL TODAY: POST GAME LIVE continues on CBS Sports Network with THE SUPER BOWL TODAY team from Mercedes-Benz Stadium.

CBS Sports will stream Super Bowl LIII across more platforms than ever, delivering unprecedented access to the game coverage. CBS Sports' streaming coverage of the game will be available un-authenticated online at CBSSports.com and on the CBS Sports app for connected TV devices, tablets, and now mobile phones as part of an expanded agreement with the NFL announced last year. CBS Sports' broadcast coverage of Super Bowl LIII will also be available to stream live via the CBS All Access subscription service for the first time.

CBS Sports HQ, the 24/7 streaming sports news network available for free across digital platforms, will deliver more than 30 hours of live, original programming from Atlanta. Along with several live daily shows from Radio Row beginning January 28, CBS Sports HQ will deliver additional on-site reports throughout each day, and on gameday will stream 10 hours of original pre-game coverage, plus post-game analysis and highlights.

The CBS Sports Communications team will be on-site in Atlanta to assist the media.
